Ecological Documentary Film Making	Filmmaker Anthony Baxter, on the impact of luxury golf resorts for the super-rich on the environment. It's a subject Baxter has covered in three acclaimed films: You've Been Trumped (2011), A Dangerous Game (2014) and You've Been Trumped Too (2016). Baxter will also talk about his latest film project in pre-production. ON THE EDGE follows an extraordinary collaboration between a world-renowned artist from Tonga and one of Europe's top architects as they envisage a groundbreaking future for a Pacific island community otherwise threatened with extinction due to rising sea levels. Uili Lousi has previously exhibited work at the Royal Academy in London as part of the 250 th anniversary of Captain Cook's first voyage to the Pacific. Now, the artist says, 'That same ocean is on fire.' Quitting Tonga and relocating its 100,000 plus inhabitants isn't an option for Lousi. Instead, he is determined to use the UN Climate Change conference in Glasgow to launch his futuristic masterplan with Brendan MacFarlane of Jakob + MacFarlane in Paris: raising the entire town of Nuku'alofa in order to safeguard its future.
